

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

Blaine worked with me at Worthington Steel over several semesters as a co-op in our IT department. During this time, he reported directly to me and consistently handled daily tasks and responsibilities with a high level of professionalism.

Blaine's attention to detail and strong work ethic stood out, especially for someone newer to the field. He was always willing to ask thoughtful questions to deepen his understanding and ensure his work was completed correctly. When faced with challenges, Blaine demonstrated excellent troubleshooting skills and was able to independently resolve most issues.

While Blaine performed very well in the hardware and networking aspects of IT, he truly excelled in software development. He took on a significant role in developing software and APIs that are still in use at the company today. We regularly relied on Blaine to design and implement critical solutions, and he consistently delivered high-quality results.

His attention to detail and thorough documentation not only improved the efficiency of the programs he developed, but also helped the rest of the team understand, maintain, and troubleshoot them effectively.

I would highly recommend Blaine to any organization seeking a skilled, reliable, and motivated software developer or related professional.
